All Interns will spend Mondays participating in a project centered on the innovations within tailored clothing and more specifically, Peerless Clothing's direct influence on these innovations. Previous projects have led to the creation of meaningful new areas of business. At the end of the program, the intern class will present findings and proposal to senior management.

The internship will be held in Peerless Clothing's New York office at 641 Lexington Avenue. The 10 week program will run from June 3rd-August 9th, 2024.

Applicants are ideally a rising senior or junior, with an interest in pursuing a full-time position in merchandising, sales or media. Applicants traditionally have an educational concentration in fashion merchandising, product development, fashion business, or fashion design; however, all ages and majors are welcome to apply. Applicants must be able to work from Peerless' New York office for the entirety of the 10 week program. Interns will be paid an hourly wage in addition to transportation and meal perks.
